YOUNG MEN

Will Guide and Guard Destiny
of the Y. M. I. in Old Kentucky.

Picked First Class Talent to Fill
Every Office in Grand Council.

Robert T. Burke Chosen to Represent Kentucky at San Francisco.

CONSOLIDATION IS FAVORED

The thirteenth annual Grand Council of the Y. M. I., Kentucky Jurisdiction, was held at Bellevue on Monday and Tuesday. From a social as well as a business standpoint the meeting was a success. The election of Grand officers was held on Tuesday, and the result was a victory for the young man idea. The officers chosen were:

Grand Chaplain—Rev. George M. Connor, Owensboro.

President—George A. Lawo, Memphis.

First Vice President—Guy Hazel, Knottsville.

Second Vice President—R. Bezold, Bellevue.

Secretary—Charles Barbour, Owensboro.

Treasurer—Victor K. Ecker, Louisville.

Marshal—John Holman, Carrollton.

Grand Directors—Frank G. Adams and Joseph Kirchdorfer, Louisville; John J. Barry, New Haven; Albert Oberer, Owensboro; Joseph A. Cassidy, Bellevue.

Retiring Grand President Robert T. Burke was honored by being chosen delegate to the Supreme Council, which will meet in San Francisco at an early date. J. B. Shannon, of Lexington, was made the alternate delegate.

The members almost unanimously voted to consolidate the Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania Jurisdictions into one Grand Jurisdiction, as was the case formerly. This move is expected to save money for the treasuries of the individual councils. Grand Secretary Cooney's report showed that each of the councils now affiliated was in sound financial condition. Reports also developed that several minor councils in rural regions had succumbed through lack of funds.

The new officers are all well known workers in the Y. M. I. ranks. Grand President George A. Lawo holds a responsible position with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company at Memphis. He has been honored in the past by Chicago saw Council, and his earnest work has done much for the order in Tennessee. Father George M. Connor has just served a term as Grand Chaplain and is very popular with the young men. Charles Barbour, the new Secretary, has been President of the Owensboro post-office. The new Grand Treasurer is Victor K. Ecker, Secretary and Treasurer of the American Machine Company. He is now serving as President of Trinity Council. All of the other officers and directors are tried and true workers. Frank G. Adams, who has been re-elected a Grand Director, has just finished his third term of two years. He has always worked to the best interest of the order, and his worth is readily and cheerfully recognized.

Robert T. Burke, who was honored by being chosen to go as Kentucky's representative to the San Francisco convention, is one of Louisville's brightest young attorneys. He has served as President of Mackinac and as Grand President. Now still higher honors have come to him, and Kentucky's interests will be well cared for at the coming Supreme convention.

The delegates who attended the Bellevue convention were Dr. J. A. Casper, William A. Burke, John Hancock and Hon. Samuel H. Robertson, of Mackinac Council; James B. Kelly, J. C. Kirchdorfer and J. B. Cuniffe, of Trinity Council; John Hills, Jr., Phil Sheridan Council of Bellevue; Fred Arnold and Joseph Oberer, of Sarto Council, Owensboro; John Holman, of St. George's Council, Carrollton; George Hazel, of St. John's Council, Knottsville; Joseph Barry, of Chickasaw Council, Memphis; P. J. Clark, of Barry Council, Lexington, and John J. Barry, of St. Catherine's Council, New Haven.

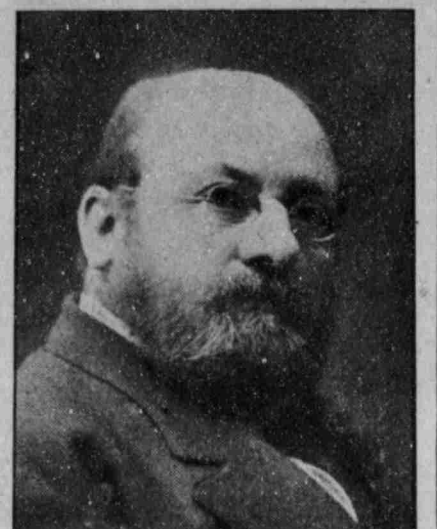

CASTLE BURNED.

Menlo Castle, in the County Galway, Ireland, and known to the great majority of American tourists through the Green Isle, especially so to a number of people living in Louisville, was recently burned to the ground. The fire was pathetic in that three lives were lost, the unfortunate being Miss Ellen Blake, an invalid, and Della Early and Annie Brown, servants in the house. Menlo Castle was beautifully situated on the shores of Lough Corrib, within two miles of Galway. Sir Valentine Blake and Lady Blake were in Dublin at the time of the conflagration, the former being in a private hospital.

BELOVED MATRON DEAD.

The untimely death of Mrs. Sarah Halbach, who passed away at her home, 2107 Bolling avenue, early Monday morning, was a severe shock to her family and many friends. The deceased is survived by her husband, Charles L. Halbach; a three-year-old son and four sisters, Misses Katie, Bridget and Mamie Maloney, and Mrs. Eugene Sullivan. Mrs. Halbach was held in high esteem by all who knew her, and hundreds of friends attended the funeral, which took place from St. George's church on Wednesday morning.

POPE'S LEGATE

May Spend Two Months in Seeing North America.

Monsignor Sante Tampieri, one of the Secretaries in the office of the Papal Secretary of State and a member of the suite attached to the person of Cardinal Vincent Vannutelli, who will be the Papal Legate to the International Eucharistic Congress, has arrived in America to represent the Cardinal in the arrangements that will be made for his reception. He spent several days in Boston as the guest of Archbishop O'Connell and then went to Montreal.

According to information received from Monsignor Tampieri the Cardinal Legate may remain two months on this side of the Atlantic. While in Montreal he will be the guest of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific railroad.

A committee of well known railroad men has arranged a programme whereby the Papal Legate will be able in a short time to cover a large part of this country. After the close of the congress he will visit the Chaplain and then go to Washington, where he will be received by President Taft. Cardinal Gibbons will entertain him at Baltimore, and Archbishop Glennon, of St. Louis, expects him to visit that city.

The Eucharistic Congress, at which he will represent the Pope, Plus X., is expected to bring to Montreal the largest gathering of Catholics that has ever assembled in one city in North America. In fact it will be the most important assemblage of Catholics that has ever gathered on this side of the Atlantic. The tolerant spirit is exemplified by the welcome of such men as Lord Strathcona and others identified with the progress of Canada. Lord Strathcona not only sent his check to the committee but placed his city palace at the disposal of Monsignor Tampieri. Archbishop of Montreal. Several Archbishops will lodge there during the ceremonies.

BISHOP DUNNE.

Texas Prelate Found Dead in Bed While on a Visit.

The Right Rev. Edward Joseph Dunne, Bishop of Dallas, Texas, died suddenly at Green Bay, Wis., on Friday of last week. He had been in ill health for some time and had gone from Dallas to Wisconsin to recuperate. He gave signs of apparent improvement for a time, but on Friday he was found dead in bed. At the time of his demise he was a guest of the Right Rev. J. J. Fox, Bishop of Green Bay.

Bishop Dunne was a native of Chicago and was born in 1846. He was consecrated Bishop of Dallas on November 30, 1893. He had jurisdiction over 108 counties in northwestern Texas. The territory covered an area of 118,000 miles. His strenuous duties and constant travel are believed to have superinduced heart failure.

The remains of the dead prelate were brought to Chicago, and the solemn requiem mass was celebrated in the Cathedral there on Wednesday. Archbishop Quigley officiated. A number of priests from Dallas attended the obsequies. The remains were consigned to the grave in the family lot in Calvary cemetery, Chicago, near his deceased parents and brother, the Rev. Richard Dunne.

HONORED FOR HEROISM.

The French Government has bestowed medals for heroism on several of the missionary priests and Sisters who performed acts of extraordinary courage in securing the American refugees during the massacres and cruelties perpetrated against these defenceless Christians by the Turks in 1909.

GETS NEEDED REST.

Rev. Father Oscar Ackermann, D. C., pastor of St. Philip Neri's church, left Monday for a week's rest and recreation at White Sulphur Springs in Virginia. This is his first vacation for several years.

Cardinal Gibbons' Warning Against Greed For Riches.

Approaching Age Such as Preceded Old Rome's Fall.

Believes the Gospel of Christ
Will Save the Present Situation.

HOW HE VIEWS THE CONDITIONS

That we are closely approaching a reproduction of the age of extravagance and inordinate pleasure in which the Romans lived just before their city was destroyed is the belief of Cardinal Gibbons. He made that plain in an interview last Saturday with a reporter for the New York World.

Cardinal Gibbons is spending a few weeks with Father James F. O'Hara, of Southampton, L. I. It was on the broad veranda of Father O'Hara's home that the Cardinal received the reporter.

"Since you have taken the trouble to come to see me," he said with the courtesy that is so closely a part of his simplicity of manner, "I am pleased to see you. But, you see, I am down here for a little rest. I would prefer not to enter into any discussions just at this time." As the Cardinal talked Southampton cottages flashed by in autos and carriages.

"I think we are very closely approaching the age of extravagance and inordinate pleasure enjoyed by Rome just before the fall," said the Cardinal. "The cry today is for more and more riches. The rich man is greedy for more. He seems never to have enough to satisfy his desire. It is the same with the well-to-do. The cry is the same everywhere. Then there is the desire for inordinate pleasures. We have many more charms of pleasure than there were in the days of Augustus Caesar, yet there is the desire for new pleasures and for greater enjoyment. I have been told that many people mortgage their homes to buy automobiles. If we did not have the automobiles there would not be the desire to mortgage the home for this purpose, and so each new pleasure brings its demand and its toll."

When the Cardinal was asked what he thought would be the result of this condition of extravagance he replied:

"I believe the gospel of Christ will save the situation. There was no hope for the people who see their folly and realize the true situation. The spirit of self-denial, unselfishness and love, the principles of Christ's teachings, will be practised by the people then more largely and will save us where Rome could not be saved."

"This great desire for riches is making people very selfish," he went on with deep earnestness. "I do not speak of individuals, for we have many generous ones among the rich, but I wish that more of them would be a little less selfish and a little more considerate of the unfortunate."

The Cardinal spoke of the great extravagance of women, and added significantly that the women of Rome were very extravagant, too. As to the comparative degrees of happiness enjoyed by the rich and the poor, Cardinal Gibbons mentioned the European peasants, who live on simple food with much contentment, and who have good appetites and good digestions, which, he added, can not be said of all the rich men of this country.

"Do you mean Mr. Rockefeller?" was asked.

"Oh, there are several," replied the Cardinal suavely. "I am sure you could tell the old story of the peasant and the nobleman who met in a wood. The peasant asked, 'What are you in search of at this hour?'"

"I came out here, my man, in search of an appetite," replied the nobleman. "And you?"

"I came out here in search of something to satisfy my appetite," replied the peasant.

"After all," said the Cardinal, rising, "nothing pays so good returns as good health."

FORTY HOURS.

Tomorrow morning the Forty Hours' devotion will commence in St. Francis of Rome church in Clifton. They will open with the high mass and be conducted by the Rev. Father Constantine, who is in charge of the parish. Rev. Father White, is spending his vacation in Ireland. With the recent addition to the church there will be ample room for the large attendance expected. The services will come to a solemn close on Tuesday.

LIFE'S WORK ENDED.

With regret we announce the sudden death of Patrick Parlin, which occurred Sunday night at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Bridget Borden, 544 North Seventeenth street. Sunday afternoon he left his home to visit his daughter, when he was seized with a sudden illness that resulted in his death. He was a native of Ireland and sixty-three years old, but nearly all his life had been spent in Louisville. Patrick Parlin was known as an honest and upright man, though he took little part in public affairs, but was a good Irishman, a good citizen, a practical Catholic, and one who never turned a deaf ear to the call for charity. He leaves one son, Morgan Parlin, and four daughters, Mrs. Bridget Borden, Mrs. Celia Andriot and Mrs. Kathryn Thorpe all of this city, and Mrs. Sallie Cannon, of St. Louis, to mourn his loss. The funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. Patrick's church. Rev. Father Cronin, V. G., being the celebrant of the mass of requiem.

ANNUAL VISIT.

Abbott of Gethsemane
Will Attend Cistercian
Chapter.

It is believed that the extensive improvements now in progress at Gethsemane Abbey will be completed within the next two weeks, or before the Right Rev. Edward M. Obrecht, the Abbot, will leave for France to attend the annual Grand Chapter of the Trappists. He will sail from New York for Havre on September 1. The Grand Chapter will convene at the Abbey of Cîteaux, the home of the Cistercian monks since 1038 A. D.

The improvements at Gethsemane include new cloisters with concrete floors and thirty stained glass windows of Munich design and workmanship. The design of the new cloisters is medieval, the paving is of ceramic tile, and the ceiling is in the form of vaulted arches. It is hardly possible that the new cloisters will be dedicated until Abbot Obrecht returns to Kentucky in October.

Member St. Joseph's Orphan Society
Executive Committee.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funeral of Hattie Veeley, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Veeley, 923 Dunesmill street, took place Tuesday morning from St. Louis Bertrand's church. Miss Veeley was popular and respected in her circle, and for the bereaved parents there is the most profound sympathy.

The funeral of Miss Anna Rudy, a highly respected young woman of the East End, who died Sunday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rudy, 1809 Frankfort avenue, was largely attended Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's church. Miss Rudy had been ill for several months, but had borne her suffering with Christian resignation and fortitude. Besides her parents she leaves one sister, Miss Corinne Rudy.

With feelings of most profound sorrow was received the announcement of the death of Mrs. Josie Gilligan, which occurred Saturday evening at St. Joseph's Infirmary. Deceased was the wife of Bryan Gilligan, of 1429 Melwood avenue, and was known through the East End for her many virtues and excellent traits of character. The funeral took place Tuesday morning and was one of the largest seen at St. Joseph's church for a long time past.

The many relatives and friends of Mrs. Mary Zoeller, beloved wife of William Zoeller, of 429 West O street, were grieved and shocked when they learned of her death on Sunday night at St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital. Mrs. Zoeller had been ill for several weeks, but despite all that love and skill could do for her she passed peacefully to her eternal rest. The funeral took place Tuesday morning from Holy Name church, Rev. Father O'Connor officiating at the solemn obsequies.

AD RECENT DEATHS.

Mrs. Mary Maloney, an old and esteemed resident of the Hill, died at the family residence, 1231 Hull street, early Wednesday morning. She had been in failing health for several months, and her death was not unexpected. She is survived by her husband, Michael Maloney, and five children, one of whom is Sgt. James Maloney, of the mounted police. The other children are Mrs. B. J. Hourigan, John Maloney and Misses Nellie and Annie Maloney. The funeral took place from St. John's church yesterday morning and was very largely attended.

HIBERNIAN DELEGATES.

Division 1, A. O. H., of New Albany, one of the oldest of the order in Indiana, has elected Messrs. John Gooding, Daniel Walsh, James O'Hara and Charles Skelly as delegates to the State convention to be held at Terre Haute beginning August 23. They are all men of experience and ability in the affairs of the Ancient Order, and it would not be surprising if any one of the number became a member of the State Board, a recognition to which Southern Indiana Hibernians are justly entitled.

CLOSES ON MONDAY.

The annual retreat for the Sisters of Mercy, which began last Saturday at St. Catherine's Convent on East Broadway, conducted by the Rev. Father Simon, C. P., will come to a solemn close next Monday morning, the Feast of the Assumption.

SPIRIT OF PIONEERS SURVIVES

Next Wednesday will be a gala day for the orphans of St. Joseph's Asylum, Crescent Hill. It will not alone be an annual festival for the parentless boys and girls, but it will be also the occasion of an outing for the many friends of St. Joseph's Asylum. Not only are the German Catholic parishes interested, but the people of all congregations will do their part toward making the affair a greater success than ever. Last year the asylum celebrated its sixtieth anniversary. The occasion was a joyous one, and the friends of the institution desire to make the coming festival surpass that of last year.

St. Joseph's Asylum is located in the highest, healthiest and most beautiful suburb of Louisville. The grounds are spacious and the buildings are well ventilated and scrupulously clean. The German Catholics of Louisville have a pardonable pride in this institution. They founded it, fostered it and have seen it grow for more than three score years, although the original asylum was located near the center of the city. In time the number of children became so great that larger and more congenial quarters had to be secured. The directors of the asylum society purchased the plot in Crescent Hill, which is now adorned by the handsome building that the little ones who regard St. Joseph as their patron call home.

Each year has seen new improvements. What was once in the country was taken into the city. Streets had to be made and sidewalks laid. A modern heating plant had to be installed and electric lights had to be put in. Modern sanitary arrangements and an emergency hospital were other matters that called for the expenditure of money.

The good German Catholics that compose St. Joseph's Orphan Society have done well by the orphans. Only once a year they ask the general public to help them in rearing and educating these little ones who have been left parentless.

Many of the best men in Louisville are proud to be numbered among the members of St. Joseph's Orphans' Society. They have inherited their charity toward the orphan and the friendless as they have inherited their Catholic faith. In the old days many of the leaders were poor, obscure and unlearned in the ways of the world, but they had brought from the Fatherland that boundless charity that overcomes all shortcomings. The work begun by pioneer German Catholics is now being carried on by their children and grandchildren. Many of these have been blessed with much of this world's goods, and none are chary of giving it toward worthy charities.

In 1850, when the society was first established, the officers were Urban Stengel, George Schwellz, Joseph Stuckenborg and Nicholas Boes. With the exception of Urban Stengel all of these are gone, but their spirits still live in the present officers, Joseph Hubbuch, Sr., H. H. Frencke, Henry J. Gude, Henry Ellert and Frank P. Senn.

Additional amusements will be afforded all patrons of the outing this year. New games and attractions for young and old will be found, and the grounds will be beautifully illuminated in the evening. Dinner and supper will be served in the new addition, where several hundred persons can be accommodated at one time.

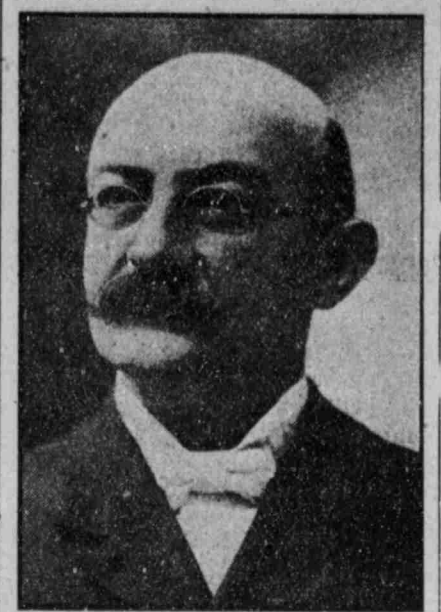

Joseph Hubbuch, Sr., is Chairman of the General Executive Committee, and his chief assistants are H. H. Frencke, Henry Gude, Henry Ellert, Frank P. Senn, Frank A. Geher and Charles Stauble. Others who will assist as Chairmen of committees are J. B. Ohlgeschlager, Leo C. Schumann, Henry Boese, George Springman, Theodore Evers, John Wilms, Martin Kolb, J. H. Walser, A. Driesbach, Dominic Zehnder, George Seldermann, Rev. J. B. Peller, John A. Miller, Oscar Maier, Henry Michael, Dominic Lubbers, B. Schlemann, W. F. Mayer, Bernard Fritsch, Henry Bosquet, Joseph Twickler, Alvis Ohlman, Fred Kaelin, John Rothman, Frank Bauer, F. J. Herrmann, B. J. Geher, Jacob J. Hubbuch, Ed. Hill, J. J. Mueller, H. H. Schneider, L. W. Hugelmeier, John Sasse, F. Lutz, J. Kupper, S. O. Hubbuch, J. Schreckner, C. L. Crush, Jacob Graft, George Bohr and Dr. W. A. Blinde-wald.

It will be pleasant news to the orphans and to the members of the society to learn that the Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue has accepted an invitation to be present and will attend the outing during the afternoon and evening.

HANDSOME COMPLIMENT.

County President Patrick Welsh had quite a lengthy conference with Prof. Michael G. Rohan, of Marquette University, while they were attending the Hibernian National convention in Portland. Mr. Welsh feels particularly good over what Prof. Rohan said about the work of James P. Barry, of Division 3. This learned educator is head of the movement to promote the teaching of Irish history in parochial schools, and he says that Mr. Barry has rendered him more assistance and done more efficient work than any other member of the order.

M'DERMOTT.

Prof. Monaghan's Tribute
Distinguished Louisville Citizen.

Prof. James C. Monaghan, who recently completed a most successful lecture tour of the country under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, in his letter to Hon. Edward J. McDermott, Grand Knight of Louisville Council, that will be appreciated by the Catholics of Kentucky. Prof. Monaghan says:

"I am now in Louisville. I am waiting at this moment for Brother McDermott, who is to take me to his home to dinner. If you haven't heard of Brother McDermott, hear about him now. He belongs in the class with Joe Scott, Neal Power, Senator Guerin, Pelletier and the fine fellows who are writing their names and our names high in the land. Intellectual, athletic, witty, true, quick as lightning, full of fire and fight, when light is the word, of the Kelly and Burke and Shear-race, he has earned his right to the place in the South once held by Henry W. Grady. A man told me on the train yesterday that he had heard Marion Crawford and Brother McDermott on Pope Leo XIII., and that the latter's presentation of the great Pope's life was as far higher than the former's as Pike's Peak is above the foothills of the Rockies. Brother McDermott is to introduce me. I hope sometime to introduce him to a vast audience in Carnegie Hall. He is a hero; but I am loth to lift the pen or pencil that is to tell the tale of how he has had to suffer for being a Catholic. Thank God! Kentucky's biggest and bravest men, and she has always had these, in hundreds of thousands, men like Temple Bodley, Boyd Winchester, Henry Watterson, stood by him in the breach and in the open field. I am at a loss for words to say how very grateful I am to the men and women I met last night after my talk. The hall was prettily decorated. The affair was a social success. It strengthened my belief in our power to lift American society, to make it as fine as that fine old French society. Here one is impressed by the charm of Southern culture, kindness, courtesy, hospitality. May they not only never grow less, but radiate until all our land is like Louisville."

LECTURE COURSE

At the Catholic Summer School Instructive and Enjoyable.

Many Louisville Catholics have the time and money to enjoy a vacation, but the number of them that take advantage of the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven, N. Y., is discretely small. The ablest and most interesting of the States give lectures at the Catholic Summer School, The Central and New England States are well represented, but even the far West is ahead of Kentucky in sending their people to this fount of wisdom.

It is not too late yet. This is the seventh week of the present season, and all the lectures have been of especial interest. Among the speakers were the Right Rev. Henry Gabriels, Bishop of Ogdensburg and first Vice President of the school; Rev. Father Thomas Short, LL.D., noted educator and professor of the Catholic University in Washington; Very Rev. George M. Searle, C. S. P., a noted Catholic astronomer; Hon. Edward E. O'Malley, Attorney General of New York State; Miss Rose Egan, of New Rochelle College, and the Rev. Father John T. Driscoll, who conducted the exercises at the reading circle on Tuesday.

PLEASES THE IRISH.

Last Saturday the Cunard line decided to revert to Queenstown, Ireland, as a port of call on east-bound journeys, landing passengers and mails there before continuing to Fishguard, the new port on the Welsh coast. All steamers except the Lusitania and the Mauretania will put in at both Queenstown and Fishguard, beginning September 1.

HANGING

In the Balance Is the Fate of Premier Asquith's Cabinet.

Portentious Matters to Be Discussed During October Meeting.

Eight Men Hold Fate of Britain's Millions in Their Grasp.

IRISH MEMBERS HOLD ALOOF

Parliament has adjourned until November 11, and the leaders of the various parties are scattered over the British Isles and over the continent of Europe. Hon. T. P. O'Connor, a member of Parliament, one of Redmond's chief lieutenants, says a heavy pall of silence hangs over the whole political world, and that the beginning of the vacation is made deadlier as a narcotic to political activity by the announcement that the conference on the Lords' veto issue meets again in October. Thus once more party conflict is benumbed by the transfer of all authority to a secret conclave of eight men, who for the time hold in delegation all the powers of the King, Parliament and the millions of British people.

The session wound up in an extraordinary transformation from its opening. During the first six weeks there was daily possibility of a collision between Asquith and Redmond, with a long period of divided councils as the Asquiths and the Redmonds. The unexpected hesitation of Asquith to accept the realities of the situation and announce his determination to face King Edward with a point blank demand to take sides in the House of Lords battle on the Lords' veto issue, and the Premier down to the lowest point in his whole career.

When Asquith finally announced his resolve to demand guarantees from the sovereign his prestige was only partly restored. Then came the death of King Edward and the Premier was benumbed by the transfer of all once more brought back the old fissures in the ranks of the Ministers and Asquith's position was one of discouragement and division began to spread the ranks with the possibility of a new arrangement between Asquith and Redmond.

Now the Government ends the session with a blaze of prestige and Asquith stands out more than any other man. His transformation is due to two causes. He managed the session with a calm and with extraordinary calm. After breaking down the opposition in Parliament and the growing tempest of no Popery feeling in England he finally passed it into a law and everybody breathed a sigh of relief at the removal of this odious insult to the Roman Catholics into the mouth of the King and the danger at the appearance of the dangerously rising tide of popular bigotry. This is Asquith's session, but it is perhaps more Redmond's session, as every outstanding episode is due to his influence and policy, at once sagacious and firm.

And again Mr. O'Connor tells us that one of the potent factors influencing the present extraordinary situation in England is the coming coronation of the King. The desire is general that this great event in the history of the new reign and the new sovereign should be marked by a new surroundings as tranquil as possible, as this is one of the many things which are producing so profound a feeling that peace ought to be made with Ireland.

When the late King Edward ascended the throne there was some hope that the Irish people would be represented at the ceremonies by which his reign was inaugurated. There was no response from Ireland. The Irish members could have no seats in Westminster Abbey at the coronation, but they refused to appear.

The result of the coming conference, if any favorable results are to be attained, must declare for home rule for Ireland and must uphold the veto of the Lords. The Irish members will be satisfied with nothing else. If harsh rule is to be enforced the Irish members will desert the Liberals; then look out for the downfall of Asquith and his Cabinet.

BLUEGRASS PHYSICIAN DEAD.

The people of Fayette county are mourning the death of Dr. William Foley, who passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital at Lexington last Sunday. Dr. Foley was County Health Officer and until recently Major in the Hospital Corps of the State militia. He was a native of Fayette county, and after graduating from the Kentucky State University pursued his medical studies in Germany. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Tello Danahy, three small children, Louis, Lucy and John Foley, and his venerable mother, Mrs. Timothy Foley. The deceased was a prominent member of Bluegrass Council, Knights of Columbus, and was active in church work. His funeral took place from St. Paul's church on Tuesday morning and was very largely attended.

ELECTED FOR LIFE.

Trinity Council has elected the Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue member for life. His Lordship certainly appreciates the compliment.
